"whereby" and "wherein" when used in claim language may have significantly different meanings.

The Examiner's changes in the twice amended claims are in the last portion of claims 1, 2, 3, 5, 11 and begin with the cancelation of a period "." and insertion of "wherein, the user selects any of the selectable pressure levels, of a plurality of selectable pressure levels."

Applicant desires the time frame indicated by the Examiner's "wherein, the user selects any..." to be changed. Applicant believes --wherein, a user can select any..." is more accurate and proper for "structure" claims such as 1, 2, 3 and 5, and it also seems proper for claim 11. This change reflects the fact that the user is not a limitation actually selecting a selectable pressure in the time frame in which the novel combination of limitations is being recited in the claims.

Additionally, each of the below amended claims now includes something to the effect of "associated with said variable-conductance analog material" following the "selectable pressure levels" of the wherein clause, and this so that the selectable pressures are clearly associated with the analog material or analog sensor or the like.
